Reflections

“Putting Faith into Action”

5 The apostles said to the Lord, ‘Increase our faith!’ 6The Lord replied, ‘If you had faith the size of a mustard seed, you could say to this mulberry tree, “Be uprooted and planted in the sea”, and it would obey you.

Luke 17:5-6

A person never really knows how much faith they have, until it is put to use. When everything is under control, without challenges or significant needs, we are not living by faith – we are living by our own capability. In those eras, when the people of God had been managing God’s work by their own strength and capability, there has been a steady decline in the gospel and message. This was seen shortly after the first century of following Jesus. A letter was sent to Claudius, Caesar by a servant dispatched to investigate, among other things, the movement called “Christian” saying: “You needn’t trouble yourself for there are far many who ‘were’ Christian than who are now.” This was a period of relative quiet and stability for the church. Soon after a combination of plagues, civil unrest, and changes took place in society. Amid the uncertainty and injustice that took place in the Roman society, Christianity grew and exploded so that within two hundred years it displaced all of the other various forms of belief and religion. Had the people of God remained within their own capabilities, the Christian faith would have continued to wither. When challenges took place, faith enabled Christians to serve and transform the world.

This, of course, is the good news and the bad news for the institution of the Church today. We have had a period of being central to the culture and belief of western civilization. Increasingly, with each generation, a change is taking place in the way Christ’s love is communicated. It must adapt to the changes in the way people communicate. Our challenge is not to make the gospel more “saleable”, but to make it clearer and more honest about Christ’s message of love. As need explodes, and it always does, the love of God will be heard and welcomed.

In order to have faith that is strong and relevant to today, we need to act on our faith. In the church we are doing so with studies of institutionalized racism (“White Fragility”) and focusing more upon actively serving Christ in the needs of our community. Faith grows when it is moving and especially when it is challenged. The point is not so much to seek difficulties, but to be increasingly present in ways that show Christ’s love for people who are struggling. If we are open to the Holy Spirit, God will move us beyond our place of being comfortable, to where faith can grow. In that place, our security is in serving God, and knowing God’s love for us. It is also in the place where we become more focused on enabling the things that matter to God are the things that matter to us.

So, we bring our mustard seeds, knowing the power of what is small – when in God’s hands – to accomplish what is great. Let’s pray to see what God will challenge us to accomplish today.

Peace,
Pastor Jack

CARING UNDERSTANDING APPEARANCE SAFETY

Caring Understanding Appearance Safety

What is this and what does it have to do with us?

Summer is improvement and repair time in Wisconsin. Our church is no exception. The projected costs of our plans for this summer's work is about $43,000. Reserves, endowment interest and memorial bequests fund a portion of these projects. Other gifts will be required to complete the work that is needed.

Let's take a closer look at Caring, Understanding, Appearance, and Safety:

Caring – Caring for the people, the building and the ministries of the church are the focus of refurbishing the Education Wing.

Understanding – Understanding clearly what is said and who is speaking are vital parts of worship. A sound system that allows better voice projection of all the presenters will enhance understanding for all.

Appearance – Appearance is often the first impression of our church. Replacing overgrown shrubs, removing dead trees and upgrading other areas of our landscaping will give a welcoming first impression.

Safety – Safety in our parking lot for our walkers and drivers will be improved when cracks are fixed, potholes are patched, and lines are repainted.

10/06/2019 World Communion Sunday

Communion, Family Communion Activity between services.

Sermon: "Christians Seek Healthy Family Relationships"
Theme: Meaningless conflicts, disrespect, and broken relationships are signs of immaturity and a lack of submission to Christ. Christians instead practice behaviors that support healthy family relationships.
Purpose: The congregation will seek to support discipleship practices in their family.
Scriptures: 2 Timothy 1:1-14 Do not be ashamed of the testimony of God; a faith that Timothy received through his grandmother and mother.
Luke 17:5-10 Faithfulness creates faithfulness.

Questions:

How is our relationship with Christ reflected in our family and other close relationships? In what ways does our knowledge of God enhance and enable us to be healthy and joyful in our relationships? In what ways are conflicts and family issues a result of failing to practice healthy forgiveness, compassion, kindness, and grace? In what ways do family struggles arise from other issues and problems that our faith and practice do not enable us to address well? How does our relationship with God assist us in those times of irreconcilable conflicts?

10/13/2019

Sermon: "Christians Thrive In 'Babylon'"
Theme: The people of God work with the circumstances in which they live for peace and healing.
Purpose: Christians are adaptable and practical in their faith, which means that they seek what is best for themselves and the people who are around them.
Scriptures: Jeremiah 29:1, 4-7 Work to accomplish what is best in the city of your exile.
2 Timothy 2:8-15 Endure in the midst of hardships, Christ is faithful to us, do not get caught up in meaningless controversy.

Questions:

How do Christians respond to situations in which their faith conflicts with the culture and practices around them? How do Christians manage to live their faith without being obstinate, conceited, or arrogant? How do we keep our values and priorities in a world that pushes for conformity? How do we "stand out" for Christ without being rude or inconsiderate? How do we seek what is best for the land in which we live? What does it mean to be strangers in a strange land?

10/20/2019

Sermon: "Christians Wrestle with Their Faith"
Theme: As Christians we seek to know God in our own experience and understanding, through a process of questioning and seeking.
Purpose: The people in the congregation will grow in their understanding of what it means to struggle with their faith and beliefs.
Scriptures: Genesis 2:22-31 God created man and women, made them to be one flesh.
Luke 18:1-8 Parable of unjust judge moved by persistence.

Questions:

What is the experience of growing in our faith and in our relationships as Christians? How do we deal with situations that are challenging and confusing? What does it mean for our faith to persevere? What do we need to do in order to be faithful, and yet open to growth and change? How do we know the difference between being rigid and being too easily swayed? How do we deal with living faithfully when we are in times of faith transition and doubts?

Christians Serving, Learning and Loving

10/27/2019

Sermon: "Christians Practice Acceptance"

Theme: Intolerance, prejudice, unforgiveness and racism are incompatible with a healthy relationship with Christ and call Christians to constant work to be healthy.

Purpose: The need to withhold judgment will be explored.

Scriptures: 2 Timothy 4:6-8, 16-18 Paul has kept the faith and accepts his circumstances even though he has been abandoned by some he thought were his friends.

Luke 18:9-14 Parable of the Pharisee and the tax collector praying for forgiveness.

Questions:

What does it mean to be accepting of people who are different from ourselves? In what ways do we participate and live in systems that are discriminatory and oppressive? What is the difference between being racist and living in systems that are unjust? How do we become open to seeing our place and role in causing problems in which we live? What can we do to share Christ's love in ways that are healing and renewing?

11/03/2019 Communion

Sermon: "Christians Live By Faith"

Theme: To be Christian means to trust in God, rather than indulge in our fears over lack of security, control, or domination.

Purpose: The congregation will consider what it means to be part of the body of Christ: Past, present, and future.

Scriptures:

Habakkuk 1:1-4, 2:1-4 In the midst of turmoil the prophet watches for the signs of redemption which are promised.

Luke 19:1-10 S tory of Zacchaeus' repentance.

Questions:

What does reconciliation look like in the world around us? How do we practice grace with people who have been destructive and untrustworthy in the past? To what degree do we guard against allowing people to be abusive and how do we open pathways for restoration? How do we seek the best for people who have been self-destructive and hurtful while being wise? How do we deal with long periods of waiting for healing or restoration?
